BETTER TO HAVE NEWSPAPERS WITHOUT GOVERNMENT THAN GOVERNMENT WITHOUT NEWSPAPERS

Student Union Construction to Begin

Students and Administration Agree on Key Issues

By Joe Bush AS Vice President

Agreement about the student union proposal submitted by the Administration was finally reached at a meeting between the Dean of Students and the Student Union Members on Tuesday.

The following is a synopsis of the Union Proposal:

The union will be 15,000 sq. ft. and will include the following:

ROOMS: A quiet lounge 1,200. Multi-purpose room (lectures, dances, films) 3,500

Recreation room (pool, chess, table tennis) 2,000.

Snack bar-grill and lunch room 1,180.

3 meeting rooms, a darkroom, a club and organization room, Associated Student Government offices, union director offices, and pawprint office.

The basic disagreement between the Administration and Student Leaders was over the management and control of the Union.

Administrators finally accepted a proposal to incorporate a new auxiliary organization (The Union Board of Directors) to run the union and to provide $1,000.00 in legal fees from Union monies to do so.

Another difficulty which was resolved was the addition of 250 sq. ft. for a snack bar-grill which will allow the student union to run a small cafeteria operation.

The only two unresolved issues left between the students and the Administration is A) The composition of the union board of directors. (However, we have written into the proposal the statement that a majority of the members of the Union Board of Directors have to be students). And

B) The $25,480.00 slated for salaries to operate the Union. The Administration had originally planned to spend $45,000.00 for salaries to operate the union.

We still maintain that $25,480.00 is a high figure to operate only 15,000 sq feet (about the size of the student services building minus Admissions and Records).

Construction is slated to begin January of 1976 with completion in Feb. of 1977.

The next few months will be devoted to Architectural planning and drawing up the documents for incorporation and establishing the by-laws of the Student Union Board of Directors.

Dell Richards and Diane Hansen invite students to donate books and clothing at collection centers in Student Service building and Cafeteria.

Library Features

Da Vinci Machines

Models of inventions by Leonardo da Vinci, who conceived of the flying machine and other modern developments five centuries ago, are on display this month at California State College, San Bernardino.

The exhibition of the artist-scientist's work may be seen on the fourth floor of the Library building as part of the Renaissance Month observance at the college.

Models in the show, on loan from the Design and Arts Programs of International Business Machines Corporation, include both practical and theoretical devices.

For greater accuracy, Leonardo designed a clock mechanism with two separate trains, one for minutes and the other four hours, each complete with escapement, gears and weights.

The first set of models of Leonardo's work, constructed in contemporary times was built in 1938 for an exhibition in Milan, Italy. It traveled briefly, and during World War II was completely destroyed by bombs in Tokyo. Another group of models, built in the United States after the war, was acquired by IBM in 1951 and incorporated into the company's touring exhibition program.

The Leonardo da Vinci model exhibit will be on display throughout the month of February and may be seen during regular day through Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, noon to 4 p.m. and Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m.

Does anyone know why the patio is never used?

Letters To The Editor

Indian Summer

Dear Friends,

Greetings! From the land of the Maharishi!... and you know what? He does take Sominex every night!

This is essentially a report on the summer of '73, people, new experiences - Even visiting old places such as London, Rome, etc. becomes a new experience when accompanied by children.

Our stop-over in London was brief. Just being enough to show the children "the Tower," a boat-trip along the highly entropic Thames, a taste of the "tube," and of course, the Piccadilly Circus.

We then headed for Rome. Stayed there less than we planned. Very expensive - dollar plunged to the lowest while there. Old veterans of "Europe by $5-day" found it necessary to put-out much more. Shakey's pizza in the U.S. is by far a much better buy, but the coffee was worth every Lira they charged.

Of course everything around us was reeking with ancient history. It was quite an experience for our California-born children, where the oldest monument in their life is the Mission Inn!

While roaming around Rome we ran into a huge sign "Petrucci's Bar." We decided it only proper that we stop and patronize the place for the sake of old loyalties back home. (Editor's note: Ralph Petrucci is Dean of Academic Planning).

We grabbed a Kuwait. All that Arabic scribbled all over the airplane made us uneasy, especially when we got near the El Alo.

We landed in Kuwait at midnight. The temp. was around 100 degrees F. No one can forget it's an oil country. The air is filled with black oil fumes which camouflages all the darkies!

Delhi was extremely hot! So after a quick look at the major highlights, we collected the children from the swimming pool and headed to Bangalore in S. India. It's truly an air-conditioned city! Temp. range 65-85 degrees.

Beautiful skies - rains are almost always arranged to be at night, leaving the days bright, with peculiar cloud formations.

Not a trace of smog. Of course, there is plenty of pollution, but it seldom comes up to above your knees!

India is going thru severe food shortage and I feel guilty each time I look into the mirror, all that brand new layer of fat. Which is great in that I am not even fighting it.

In $ terms, food is extremely cheap. Beef is about 20 cents a pound. A 10 pound Sirloin tip roast costs about $2. So steak and potatoes often comprise our light meal in the evening.

Our main meal is at noon, always Indian and elaborate prepared by our live-in cook. (Wish I could take him back to U.S.A.)

In a fit of nostalgia, I cooked some chile-con-carne, the other day. The beans were twice as expensive as the meat! So, no more beans in chile while here, we'll have to reverse it when we get back.

Fruits and vegetables abound, all the tropical ones, and most of the temperate ones. Beautiful avocados 10-15 cents a pound. Mangos and papayas taste doubly sweet when they arrive at the table cut and peeled.

We've been given an air-conditioned Ford station wagon with a chauffeur. The damn thing is so huge compared to the little Indian cars, I feel like Gulliver in Lilliput!

It's really great not to be sitting behind the steering wheel after all that freeway driving in the U.S. Gasoline prices are exorbitant in Indian, but lucky for us, the U.N. pays for gas.

An old Brahmin musician comes to our home twice a week to give flute lessons to our children. We have to get rid of all that nasty beef smell before he arrives. We burn a lot of incense around here.

Pace of life is very slow indeed in Indian and it is exceedingly slow in academic endeavors. There is very little one can do about it. Lab equipment dribbles in weeks later than expected.

Still in all, I'm in the process of completing a manuscript and also gathering very interesting worm data from human and animal hospitals. When it comes to worms, this place is a gold mine!

Three of us have had good infections of ectoparasites so far; as for the endoparasites, I wouldn't want to look until we are ready to leave.

What seems to proceed unabated in rapid pace here is human reproduction! The number of children that seem to pour out of every nook and cranny is truly frightening!

And yet India has spent so much on family planning. The amount of propaganda is really astonishing. The picture of the ideal family with 2 children is everywhere. Even our electric bill arrives with family planning slogans! Maybe a free t.v. set for every family with all night programs is the answer - I despair!!!

So, what is the crisis of the week in our Banana Republic! If we could only arrange to dethrone King Richard, then coming back to the U.S. would truly be exciting!

We had planned to return via North Africa, but things seem a bit unsettled there at the moment. So we will wait until the battle between Soviet-Sam and Uncle Sam is settled before we finalize our plans.

I'm dying to hear all the news about the Tumbleweed Tech. So please write.

Love,
Sarojam Mankau

I THE SURVIVOR

Some times I wonder if it is at all worth it to have the "Viet Nam conflict." I came home expecting at least some kind of questions concerning my feelings about it. Yet, I get the distinct impression that it is considered impolite to bring up such a downer! I guess it is hard for mortal such as I to forget, that The same folks that are bringing us the Oil shortage and Economic collapse; also forced us young folks to die in the longest war in our history. (50,000) Where is the awareness that is legendary among youth? Young ladies your children will be used for the same thing in the future, you must move to prevent it soon. I ask you? Will 10,000 inflated dollars buy your son or daughter? Not having any is no solution some one's loved ones go to protect the profits of your stocks and bonds. You may throw down this paper, and say that's a bunch of crap, but when they load your son or daughter onto that airplane your heart will be in your throat. When she returns to insult you and he comes home in a box, You will remember!

Phantom

Dear Jody,

You are to be commended for your alertness in pointing out the consequences of signing on the dotted line. Yours is a patriotic quality and I think that the National Guard can use people like you. You are probably well aware that during the sixties thousands of young men joined up.

Many of them did so to avoid being drafted and many of them filled slots that were vacated by guardsmen who had joined the Army. Reserves and guard units in the larger population centers quickly filled up so that many of your weekend warriors traveled 75 to 100 miles to such fringe areas as Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Most of them have been doing a fine job of attending monthly drills and annual summer training. Many of them have distinguished themselves in support of fire fighters in the infamous forest fires of this region.

Now that many have completed their six or eight-year stint they look forward to others taking their place. This has been a very orderly thing that has been taking place for decades, even since the birth of this nation.

You may take exception but I don't believe you are going to convince this nation that it doesn't need the Guard. That is my personal view to which I consider myself entitled as you are to yours.

It was by no means my intention to advertise. You see Jody, I just returned to California after a 14-year absence. After deciding to return to college I found myself in need of additional income.

Anarchy on Campus

by Dave Fowler

One of the gags currently making the campus rounds concerns the Young Anarchists Club. Since most people think that anarchists are against government and order, they see such a club as being a funny paradox, nothing more. Which only goes to show you how much most people know.

Anarchy, due to its being associated with the Bolshevik Revolution, is considered to be some vague chaos full of bomb-throwing radicals and your neighbors ripping you off, or murdering you, while your back is turned. But it isn't that, at least not as preached by Proudhon, Bakunin, Godwin, and others. It's something very different.

Taken from its 'Greek conception, anarchy is "where none prevail." Meaning, there are no imposed authoritarian institutions, no formally recognized leaders, no one to tell you what to do. Anarchy is freedom, total freedom.

Yeah, that's a scary idea. Equality always if Too many

When I found out that the Guard pays for longevity and grade held in military service (except retirees) I thought it was a good idea to pass that valuable information to others who might be in need. I am sure that this campus has its share of affluent, but on the whole I think that quite a few of the several hundred veterans could use the extra money.

Now, I only engage in this tit-for-tat exchange to move to bigger and better things. If your heart is in the right place we could join forces in this one. I think this campus ought to have a veteran's organization with room for everyone, first termers and retirees from all the services, for the purpose of pursuing legislation in favor of veterans.

By shying away from the petty projects we can muster strength in numbers. It isn't even necessary to have meetings, just a monthly or bi-weekly bulletin.

What do you say? Remember, the silent majority around here numbers about seven hundred and especially in an election year you can make it worthwhile to get involved.

Pieter J. Krommenhoek

The most thought provoking question encountered by the American college student is whether or not Peter Pan was right. Has the decision to oppose the emanent philosophy of history's oldest boy been a correct one? Has the institution of higher learning placed climbing a tree beyond your dignity? Has your youthful innocence been contained by the bricks of learning? If so, can the bricks of learning be intergrated with your latent Peter Pan?

people are afraid of it. The people in power want to stay in power; they like bossing people around. The people out of power, don't want it; they like being bossed. For sure, with the current situation among humans, anarchy wouldn't work. But is that any reason to say it will never work? To say that some men will always be dominated by others?

"When is anarchy going to come," you ask. "And how?" "When we all become like angels," your friend answers.

By that time, for sure. But maybe sooner, if we get started, if we get on the road. It will be a long, hard road, but there will be an end to it, and end worth reaching.

And that, roughly, will be the purpose of the Young Anarchists Club, to search out, to find, to examine, to consider, to assess, to learn. We want to form a group interested in improving our miserable lot in life by finding ways to liberty.

Watch those billboards. We'll be posting notices pretty quick.

MAKE YOUR METAPHYSICAL DREAM COME TRUE

As a philosophy student I have been confronted with the problem of what to do with a B.A. in philosophy. Like a light from heaven an answer appeared before me which I feel is my duty to share with my fellow students.

While walking through a little known area of San Bernardino, with visions of Thomas Aquinas and Han Fei Tzu, completely monopolizing my attention; I hit, head on, a framed glass window with the words "Harry Houdini's School of Magic" written on it. With curiosity aroused, due to my newly acquired heightened consciousness, I stepped inside to investigate.

Astonishingly, a withered old black-cloaked man, wearing a top hat and cane, materialized from nowhere. I quickly referred to Gandhi's essay on Satyagraha to find the truth behind the strange occurrence. As I searched for the answer the withered gentleman asked my intention in life. Being one who has formulated his ideas on the nature and purpose of existence, I quickly responded, "the Spiritual unity of myself with the Universe."

The cloaked man took my by the hand and escorted me through the vast door of my imagination and explained the secrets of infinite expansion and return to the contracted state. I thanked the old magician and went on my way, stunned by the experience and permanently affected. But, because of it my indetermination has been resolved and I know now that my vocation in life will be magic.

Should Trucks Shut Down

Vince Nobile
Senior, History

"No matter how much the powers that be desire the complacency and apathy of the 50's; the trucker strikes are an indication that the people's struggle against an unjust society has not gone away, but has only moved to a higher level. The 60's saw students and young people struggle to end an illegal war and now the bill payers struggle against the same powers using many of the same tactics we used in the 60's."

Students around the campus were asked the following question this week:
DO YOU SUPPORT THE TRUCKER'S STRIKE?

John Neuhalfen
Senior, Psychology

"I sympathize with the trucker's strike. If they get the gas rates lowered, more power to them."

Takushi Higa
Senior, Chemistry

"In order to perpetuate our economic system, the elitists carried on the war in Vietnam. The people in the 60's struggled to end the war while criticizing the policy which supported the military dictatorship in South Vietnam. Now it seems the struggle has finally come to us. Elitists need people in order to make profit. They have to suck blood from the people. Those truckers were the first ones to be affected. Next it will be us. As a matter of fact, we are already affected. It is another harvest of shame."

"Idealistically it's great, realistically it's pathetic. Their grievances are justified, but the manner which they have chosen in order to find a solution is the lesser of two evils."

Sharon Ponder
Freshman, Psychology

"How can I support the trucker's strike when I can barely support myself?"

"I think they should eliminate cars and trucks. Energies should be concentrated on developing mass transit."

G.S.U. Forum Starts

The Gay Student Union conducted its first Gay-Straight Rap Session in PS 107 last Tuesday at 12 noon.

G.S.U. hopes that such dialogues will provide a communication link between Gay and non-Gay students and faculty. According to G.S.U., the need for such a dialogue stems from the potpourri of misinformation used to describe the Gay community.

At its first dialogue a number of topics were discussed. Sample questions included: "Are Gay people more sex-oriented than other groups?" and acceptance by society at large of "Gayness as a normal life-style."

Members of G.S.U. stated that homosexuals are often the victims of "stereotyping" and grossly misleading generalizations. The dialogues will give interested individuals the opportunity to acquire objective information regarding the realities of Gay life. It is for this reason that G.S.U. encourages Gay and straight people to participate in these dialogues for purposes of awareness and self-education.

Presently, G.S.U. is planning to have a regular rap session each Tuesday in PS 107 at 12 noon. Other activities being planned include a "Gay Pride Week" to be held the fourth week of the Spring Quarter.

Food Stamps

Organic Consciousness

Due to recent federal court orders more students than ever are now eligible for food stamps.

Eligibility for food stamps is determined on the basis of households: a family or other group living together and functioning as a single economic unit.

A single economic unit is one which pools its resources and jointly buys things necessary to the household, such as food, to be held and used in common by all the members of the household.

Until recently, a household was defined by public welfare officials as excluding groups of unmarried or unrelated persons.

Last April the United States District Court in Northern California redefined household as an economic unit in common living quarters which shares common cooking facilities, and customarily purchases food for the common home consumption.

This ruling enables large numbers of students to use welfare food stamps and it also means that any number of students or any other bunch of people living together can make use of one of the bennies of the free enterprise system.

There are still a few limitations on the food stamps.

You must be a poor student and you can not have too many material possessions.

For example the maximum net monthly incomes under the law are: $189 for a household of one; $260 for a household of two; $373 for three and $473 for four people.

Food stamps are almost as good as money. Infact they might even be better than your hard earned Nixon bucks.

Any questions about the food stamp program can be answered by calling or visiting your local welfare office.

Requirements and procedures are uniform regardless of sex, race, creed, color, national origin, or political beliefs."

The Dues Must Be Paid

by Sal Bellia

The wake of the Viet Nam War has touched the lives of almost everyone in the community and nation. Its effects are slowly manifesting themselves and continue to multiply. Possibly the most effected individuals are veterans faced with the task of reassimilation into society after a two or more year absence.

A popular and logical method of reassimilation for the veteran is through the education system. C.S.S.B. campus's population is composed of approximately 25 percent veterans who, for the most part, are living on a 220 dollar subsistence allotted to them by the G.I. Bill of Rights.

This is a large faction, yet a silent one. To discover the situation of the veteran and his problem of reassimilation an interview was held with Don Colletti of the CSSB Veterans Office.

When asked what was the greatest problem for the veteran, Don responded "unemployment" and "the proportionate disillusion of unemployment to the disillusion of the war." Don added, "the dues of the war will have to be paid."

The most pertinent question discussed was how to pay the dues of war with the least amount of suffering. Don's proposal was a more efficient system of redistributing the nation's taxes.

He said that "a function of government is to take taxes and return them to the public in the most beneficial manner. "This can be better achieved, according to Don by pruning the dead weight from government agencies and foresight into the problem" in order to alleviate the economic problems of the postwar plague.

The Veterans Administration takes national funds and offers ex-servicemen economic incentives for training and education. Don sees this as an equitable situation.

Yet, the administration of this and other government institutions are encumbered by useless positions and wasted expenses. He talked briefly about devices used to make an agency's financial needs appear higher each year. If budget needs decrease government allotments, money for the following fiscal year proportionately decrease.

Rather than having a decreased allotment, an agency will spend its entire fiscal budget even if the spending is unnecessary. In a time of recession and pending amplification of recession such waste is uncalled for. Don would like to see the elimination of excessive spending and the redirection of misguided funds to create new jobs for the public.

The interview was continued with a discussion on the difficulties encountered by C.S. veterans. Don sited age and absence from school, as being the most prevalent problems. Don would like to see a better system of remedial training, to help the veteran refresh his dust-covered high school training.

Veterans at Cal State have a unity. There is no one organization, on campus, representing them other than the Veterans Office. Don would like the veteran to have a voice to expose his ideas and to clarify his needs. He also urges veterans to consult him on any difficulties which may confront them.
